Find out how Hackney's communities can influence local services

Hackney's Community Empowerment Network or CEN provides the local voluntary and community sector with an opportunity to influence decisions on local policy and services.

This booklet provides information on the CEN and how you can work with our community representatives and networks on issues ranging from children's services to tackling crime and unemployment.

Hackney CVS has achieved:

As a key partner in Team Hackney, the Community Empowerment Network or CEN enables Hackney's voluntary and community sector to shape local services and policies, such as the Local Area Agreement and Sustainable Community Strategy. Hundreds of local voluntary and community sector organisations are represented through the CEN.

More than 30 community representatives or reps have been recruited from the sector to use their specialist knowledge to represent the sector at Team Hackney meetings.

CEN reps work in organisations which deliver large areas of Team Hackney's programme including some of the most challenging work in the borough. Work in which the VCS specialises.

More than 25 forums or networks of voluntary and community sector organisations many of them recruit CEN reps. Community networks bring together organisations who work on a similar issue or for a particular community.

CEN reps gather information from members to raise at Team Hackney meetings and return with information for the sector.

Networks which relate directly to Team Hackney Partnership Boards and sub groups are shown here and on pages 6 and 7. Community networks whose work cuts across these themes are listed on the back page.

Team Hackney is Hackney's local strategic partnership where decisions on policy and spending are made. It brings together key people in the public, private, voluntary and community sectors.

The CEN is hosted by Hackney CVS (Hackney Council for Voluntary Service).

Below and on pages 6 and 7, CEN reps and networks are organised into the six thematic areas of work in Team Hackney. CEN reps are listed with the VCS organisation they belong to and the area of work they specialise in.

Networks which support CEN reps within these thematic areas are also listed. A full list is on the back page.

CEN: Extra areas of CEN influence

Through the HSCF, the CEN supports reps who sit on Hackney Council's Commissioning for Personalisation Partnership Board and Adult Social Care Service Reviews.

These reps work to ensure VCS providers of social care to adults are included in the changes to adult social care services. These reps are listed below.

The CEN works hard to influence key local policies, including the Local Area Agreement, which sets out what the key agencies in Team Hackney will target its spending on for the next three years.

By hosting events, liaising with local VCS networks and leaders, and campaigning for change often in partnership with the public sector, the CEN has achieved much for Hackney's communities.

Below is a snapshot of CEN achievements:

- Adult Social Care: Our Health & Social Care Forum and reps have worked hard to ensure the VCS has a role in the Transformation of adult social care
- Assessing the impact of budget cuts: Following a meeting organised by Hackney's CEN, five principles were agreed which will drive forward partnership working across the borough
- Domestic violence: CEN reps brought recommendations from four studies on domestic violence (DV) and violence against women (VAW) to highlight issues and gaps in service for different communities in Hackney
- Economic Development Economic Development Network has been working with prime contractors for the Single Work Programme to look at involving small and local community providers
- Environment issues: Hackney's environment networks and reps have brought environmental issues to prominence at Team Hackney
- Community networks: We have secured a second grants programme to support local community networks with small development grants
- Young People - Our children and youth crime networks and reps have played an integral role in the development of Young Hackney, which brings the VCS, Youth Offending Team, Youth
